

Science-Trained User Experience Producer Becomes an MBTI® Supporter

“It was very fascinating to hear my exact same thoughts from someone else who had the same type preferences as me. That was a ‘wow’ moment.”

NIDHI JAISWAL
User Experience Producer

Why did you want to get certified to use the MBTI assessment?

I'm a relatively new hire. People here knew about type and would talk to someone on the phone and say, “It was wonderful to talk about how she can help her employees. She probably has a preference for Feeling.” I wondered how they knew that. After taking the workshop and learning about type preferences, and how behaviors can often hint at someone's type preferences, I know exactly how they knew that.

What was the most interesting thing you learned during the four-day certification program?

I come from a science background and I was a little skeptical about the whole MBTI process, but after attending the workshop I became a believer. They put us in groups to work and it was very fascinating to hear my exact same thoughts from someone else who had the same type preferences as me. That was a “wow” moment.

Would you recommend the MBTI® Certification Program to a colleague?

Yes, definitely. It's a learning experience. We think we should act as we want others to behave toward us, but after going through the certification program, you realize that everyone is different. To get the most out of every situation, you have to think like the other person. It's enlightening to understand how other people think differently and get insight into where they're coming from so that you act and communicate in a way that helps them and you in the end.
